

Leif Mosekilde, MD, DMSci is professor emeritus from Aarhus University. He is specialist in Internal medicine and endocrinology and became senior consultant at the department of endocrinology and internal medicine, Aarhus University Hospital in 1980. He became professor in osteoporosis and metabolic bone diseases at Aarhus University in 1995. He's thesis is entitled the effects of thyroid hormones on bone mass and bone remodeling in hypo- and hyperthyroidism and was defended at Aarhus University in 1995.

He has published more than 700 scientific publications (Pubmed) within endocrinology, calcium and bone metabolism, histomorphometry, calcium kinetics, epidemiology, randomized controlled trials, and genetics. Within genetics he has mainly focused on familial hypocalciuric hypercalcemia (FHH).

He's work has been cited 17.900 times without self-citations in 12.500 articles. He has an H-index of 74.